United States District Judge
Daniel Patrick Moynihan U.S. Courthouse

New York, NY 10007

Re: United States v. Türkiye Halk Bankasi A.S., S6 15 Cr. 867 (RMB) — Request to Be Heard on Government's Application for Order Nolle Prosequi

Dear Judge Berman,

We represent 1,121 victims and surviving family members of terrorist attacks that were carried out with Iran's critical material support who collectively hold over $10 billion in unsatisfied federal court judgments against the Islamic Republic of Iran. Each of our clients is a victim of Türkiye Halk Bankasi A.S.'s ("Halkbank") criminal conduct and notified the Government of their status in May 2021, and as such, we write in response to the Government's application for an order nolle prosequi to dismiss without prejudice the charges filed against Halkbank (ECF No. 767). Our clients were directly impacted by Halkbank's efforts, in concert with agents and instrumentalities of the Iranian government, to circumvent U.S. sanctions by transporting Iranian money through the United States while victims' lawsuits against Iran were pending and before judgments could be obtained and executed upon. Specifically, Halkbank directly and proximately harmed our clients by disguising billions of dollars of Iranian funds which it surreptitiously directed through the New York financial system and into accounts for the benefit of Iran, a foreign state with which this Country is currently at war. The Crime Victims' Rights Act guarantees crime victims the right to confer with the Government and the right to be informed of any deferred prosecution agreement. See 18 U.S.C. § 3771(a)(5), (a)(9). The Act further directs courts to ensure that crime victims are afforded those rights in proceedings involving the offense. See id. § 3771(b)(1). Accordingly, we respectfully request that this Court afford our clients an opportunity to be heard before acting on the government's application.

A. Background

Among the terrorist attacks from which our clients' claims arise are the hostage taking, torture, and murder of four members of the U.S. Army in Karbala, Iraq; the bombing of the U.S. Marine barracks in Beirut, Lebanon that killed 241 U.S. servicemen; suicide bombings in Tanzania and Kenya that killed hundreds and wounded thousands more; and the bombing of a Sbarro restaurant in Jerusalem that killed 15-year-old Malka Roth and 14 others. See generally Fritz v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 320 F. Supp. 3d 48 (D.D.C. 2018); Peterson v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 264 F. Supp. 2d 46 (D.D.C. 2003); Owens v. Republic of Sudan, 826 F. Supp. 2d 128 (D.D.C. 2011); Roth v. Islamic Republic of Iran, 78 F. Supp. 3d 379 (D.D.C. 2015). A complete list of our clients is attached as Exhibit A. Our clients brought lawsuits in the District of Columbia and successfully obtained, based on evidence presented at bench trials, federal judgments totaling over $10 billion against the Islamic Republic of Iran for its role in providing critical material support to carry out those terrorist attacks. A list of judgments held by our clients is attached as Exhibit B. Despite possessing a gross domestic product of nearly half a trillion dollars, see Int'l Monetary Fund, World Economic Outlook: GDP, Current Prices (Iran), IMF DataMapper, https://bit.ly/4xvXWny (last visited June 12, 2026), Iran has not paid any portion of the judgments. To the contrary, while Iran was a defendant in our clients' lawsuits, it transferred $20 billion to Halkbank in bad faith and pursuant to a fraudulent scheme that allowed at least $1 billion of Iranian funds to be laundered through New York bank accounts in violation of U.S. sanctions. Owens Second Amended Complaint at ¶¶ 12–13, 139–41, Owens et al. v. Turkiye Halk Bankasi A.S., No. 20 Civ. 2648 (S.D.N.Y. Aug 14, 2020) ("Owens"), ECF No. 46; see ECF No. 562 at ¶¶ 4, 64. The transfers were made with knowledge of our clients' pending lawsuits and with the intent of circumventing the resultant judgments and U.S. laws designed to capture Iranian funds. Owens Second Amended Complaint at ¶¶ 84–87. If Halkbank had followed the law, the Iranian funds would have been identified, blocked, and made available for attachment by judgment creditors such as our clients. Id. at ¶¶ 78–79, 139–41, 147–50. By working with Iran to illegally move money through the United States without detection, Halkbank directly and proximately harmed our clients by preventing them from receiving the compensation they are undeniably owed by Iran.

Our clients previously filed a lawsuit against Halkbank in the Southern District of New York seeking rescission of fraudulent conveyances and turnover of funds, under N.Y. D.C.L. § 273-a, N.Y. D.C.L. § 276, CPLR 5225, and the Terrorism Risk Insurance Act, based upon Halkbank's participation in the same fraudulent schemes set forth in the Superseding Indictment. Compare Owens et al. v. Turkiye Halk Bankasi A.S., No. 20 Civ. 2648 (S.D.N.Y. Aug 14, 2020), ECF No. 46 and ECF No. 562. Under section 273-a of New York Debtor Creditor Law, transfers made by a defendant during the pendency of a lawsuit are conclusively deemed fraudulent if the transfer was made for less than fair consideration and the resulting judgment is unsatisfied. As the Superseding Indictment makes clear, Iran's transfers to Halkbank were made with an intent to deceive U.S. banks and federal regulators and thus were not made in good faith—a necessary component of fair consideration under the New York Debtor Creditor Law. See ECF No. 562 at ¶¶ 1, 4–6, 64. On February 16, 2021, Judge Cote conditionally dismissed the action on forum non conveniens grounds and did not reach the merits. See Owens, ECF No. 77 at 35. As such, Judge Cote's decision left the merits of our clients' claims intact and directed them to seek relief from the courts in Türkiye.[1] The Second Circuit affirmed Judge Cote's decision. Owens v. Turkiye

[1] Unfortunately, but not surprisingly, we have been advised both by Turkish lawyers and legal experts that it is not possible to retain qualified counsel in Türkiye willing to bring a claim as complicated, and as politically charged, as our clients' claims against Halkbank for its role in laundering $20 billion of Iranian funds through the U.S. banking system in violation of U.S. sanctions. Nevertheless, as recently confirmed by Judge Ramos in a similar action seeking to hold a foreign bank accountable for its role in laundering U.S. funds for the benefit of state sponsors of terrorism, foreign accounts such as those Iran and its agencies and instrumentalities

Halk Bankasi A.S., No. 21-610-CV, 2023 WL 3184617 (2d Cir. May 2, 2023), cert. denied, 144 S.Ct. 551 (2024). Moreover, Halkbank's former Deputy General Manager of International Banking, Mehmet Hakan Attilla was convicted on charges relating to the same multibillion-dollar scheme to evade U.S. economic sanctions against Iran and his conviction was upheld by the Second Circuit. United States v. Atilla, No. 15 CR. 867 (RMB), 2018 WL 791348 (S.D.N.Y. Feb. 7, 2018), aff'd, 966 F.3d 118 (2d Cir. 2020). The same sanctions evasion scheme forms the basis of the Superseding Indictment against Halkbank in this proceeding, the conviction of Mr. Atilla, and our clients' claims in the Second Amended Complaint.

B. Our Clients Are Crime Victims Under the Crime Victims' Rights Act

In light of the foregoing, on May 3, 2021 each of our clients sought recognition of their status as victims under the Crime Victims' Rights Act, 18 U.S.C. § 3771, which provides that "a person directly and proximately harmed as a result of the commission of a Federal offense," 18 U.S.C. § 3771(e)(2)(A), is entitled to "[t]he reasonable right to confer with the attorney for the Government in the case," id. § 3771(a)(5). In particular, a crime victim has "[t]he right to be informed in a timely manner of any plea bargain or deferred prosecution agreement." Id. § 3771(a)(9). The CVRA's sponsors explained that the definition is "intentionally broad . . . because all victims of crime deserve to have their rights protected, whether or not they are the victim of the count charged." 150 Cong. Rec. S4270, S10912 (statements of Sen. Kyl). Courts have interpreted the definition accordingly. See United States v. Battista, 575 F.3d 226, 231 (2d Cir. 2009) (definition of "victim" is "broad").[2]

The Eleventh Circuit's decision in In re Stewart, 552 F.3d 1285 (11th Cir. 2008), provides the appropriate framework. The court held that the CVRA "does not limit the class of crime victims to those whose identity constitutes an element of the offense or who happen to be identified in the charging document." Id. at 1289. Rather, "[u]nder the plain language of the statute, a party may qualify as a victim, even though it may not have been the target of the crime, as long as it suffers harm as a result of the crime's commission." Id. To determine whether a person is a crime victim, a court must "first . . . identif[y] the behavior constituting 'commission of a Federal offense'" and then "identif[y] the direct and proximate effects of that behavior on parties other than the United States." Id. at 1288. In short, "[i]f the criminal behavior causes a party direct and proximate harmful effects, the party is a victim under the CVRA." Id. The definition of "crime victim" also maintained at Halkbank, are subject to turnover under New York law. See Foley v. Union De Banques Arabes et Françaises, 2026 WL 821414 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 25, 2026).

[2] See United States v. Ray, 2020 WL 6939677, at *6 (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 25, 2020) ("definition of victim under the CVRA is expansive"); United States v. Allen, 364 F. Supp. 3d 1234, 1255 (D. Kan. 2019) ("The CVRA uses extraordinarily broad language—applying to any 'Federal offense'—and the statute gives no indication that conspiracies, or any other federal crime, is excluded from that definition."), aff'd sub nom. United States v. Stein, 985 F.3d 1254 (10th Cir. 2021); United States v. Babich, 301 F. Supp. 3d 213, 216–17 (D. Mass. 2017) (adopting "inclusive approach"); United States v. Turner, 367 F. Supp. 2d 319, 327 (E.D.N.Y. 2005) (same).

"encompasses the traditional but for and proximate cause analyses." United States v. Tighe, 2018 WL 1307949, at *5 (E.D.N.Y. Mar. 13, 2018).

Applying that framework here, our clients qualify as crime victims because Halkbank's conduct impaired their ability to collect on their judgments against Iran. The Superseding Indictment alleges that Halkbank helped conceal the Iranian nexus of restricted funds, deceived U.S. regulators and financial institutions, and moved Iranian funds through the U.S. financial system in violation of sanctions laws. See ECF No. 562 at ¶¶ 1, 4–6, 64. Our clients, meanwhile, hold more than $10 billion in unsatisfied judgments against Iran arising from Iran-sponsored terrorism. Because Halkbank and Iran allegedly concealed the Iranian nexus of those funds, the assets were not identified and blocked when the transfers occurred. Had those assets been blocked, they would have been available for attachment and execution by judgment creditors such as our clients. See Terrorism Risk Insurance Act of 2002 § 201(a), Pub. L. No. 107-297, 116 Stat. 2322, 2337 (providing that the blocked assets of a terrorist party are subject to execution or attachment in aid of execution); Bank Markazi v. Peterson, 578 U.S. 212, 217–18 (2016) (describing statutory provisions making Iranian blocked assets available for post-judgment execution by terrorism victims). Instead, Halkbank's alleged conduct enabled Iran to move those assets beyond the reach of the sanctions regime, depriving our clients of assets that could have been used to satisfy their judgments. That is a direct and foreseeable consequence of the charged conduct.

It is irrelevant to the victim's analysis that our clients were not mentioned in the Superseding Indictment or that the charged offenses were framed as sanctions, bank-fraud, and money-laundering offenses. The CVRA inquiry turns on whether the defendant's criminal conduct foreseeably caused the victim's loss, not whether the victim was the formal target of the offense. See Stewart, 552 F.3d at 1289; Battista, 575 F.3d at 231. In Battista, for example, the Second Circuit held that the NBA was "directly and proximately harmed" by a conspiracy to transmit wagering information even though it was not the immediate object of the criminal scheme. 575 F.3d at 231. Likewise, courts have recognized victim status for persons directly harmed by bank-fraud schemes even where they were not financial institutions. See United States v. Michelson, No. CRIM. 09-748-01 FLW, 2012 WL 1079626, at *2 (D.N.J. Mar. 30, 2012), aff'd, 505 F. App'x 156 (3d Cir. 2012). Our clients need not be the statutory objects of every charged count to qualify as victims under the CVRA. It is enough that Halkbank's charged scheme foreseeably deprived them of attachable Iranian assets while their judgments remained unpaid by facilitating transfers that were in violation of New York's fraudulent conveyance laws.

As crime victims, our clients are entitled to "[t]he reasonable right to confer with the attorney for the Government in the case," 18 U.S.C. § 3771(a)(5), and in particular, "[t]he right to be informed in a timely manner of any plea bargain or deferred prosecution agreement," id. § 3771(a)(9). The CVRA also provides victims "[t]he right to be reasonably heard at any public proceeding in the district court involving . . . sentencing, or any parole proceeding." Id. § 3771(a)(4). The Court, in turn, must ensure that crime victims are afforded the rights guaranteed by the CVRA. See id. § 3771(b)(1). Nevertheless, the Government's application seeks approval of a Deferred Prosecution Agreement and dismissal of the charges without first affording our clients the rights guaranteed by the Crime Victims' Rights Act, as our clients first requested on May 3, 2021, more than five years ago.

C. The Government Entered into the Deferred Prosecution Agreement Without Requesting Any Input from Our Clients

We first wrote to the Government on May 3, 2021, invoking our clients' statutory rights under the CVRA and requesting an opportunity to confer. At the Government's request, we submitted a detailed letter brief on May 14, 2021, setting forth the legal basis supporting our clients' status as crime victims. We again reached out to the Government on December 8, 2021, following the Second Circuit's decision affirming this Court's ruling rejecting Halkbank's claims of sovereign immunity, requesting a meeting to exercise our clients' statutory right to confer. The Supreme Court then held on April 19, 2023 as a matter of first impression that sovereign immunity does not apply to foreign states or their instrumentalities—including Halkbank—in criminal proceedings. April 19, 2023. Turkiye Halk Bankasi A.S. v. United States, 598 U.S. 264, 143 S. Ct. 940, 215 L. Ed. 2d 242 (2023)

At no point did the Government notify us of any plea bargain or deferred prosecution agreement negotiations, nor did it afford our clients the opportunity to confer as the CVRA requires. It was therefore with great surprise that our clients learned—from the public docket, and without any prior notice, comment, or consultation, notwithstanding their repeated requests to the Government over the past five years—that on March 6, 2026, the Government entered into a Deferred Prosecution Agreement with Halkbank. See ECF No. 757.

Having watched the Government beat back Halkbank's challenges at every turn, our clients were optimistic about the possibility of a consensual resolution that rewarded the U.S. Attorney's Office's efforts, held Halkbank accountable for its misconduct—misconduct that led to the affirmed conviction of Halkbank's former Deputy General Manager of International Banking, Mehmet Hakan Attilla—and provided a meaningful recovery to victims of Iranian terrorist attacks as recompense for at least some of the billions of dollars of Iranian money that Halkbank shielded from execution in satisfaction of long-outstanding judgments. Instead, the Government entered into a Deferred Prosecution Agreement that appears not to require Halkbank to admit any criminal liability or to make any monetary payment to resolve the long-pending prosecution against it—notwithstanding a jury verdict, upheld by the Second Circuit, against the Bank's former Deputy General Manager of International Banking that confirms the Bank's violations of U.S. law. See ECF No. 766 at 1–2; ECF No. 767 at ¶¶ 6–9.

Public reports indicate that Halkbank previously discussed a resolution involving a $100 million payment. See Humeyra Pamuk & Jonathan Spicer, Turkey Floated $100 Million Halkbank Settlement Idea at White House Last Month, Sources Say, REUTERS (Oct. 7, 2025), https://bit.ly/3QpaFaC. Yet the current Deferred Prosecution Agreement appears to require no monetary payment. While the $100 million that Halkbank reportedly previously offered would itself be far too low given the extent of Halkbank's disregard for U.S. law and the harm that its flouting of U.S. sanctions has caused our clients, the fact that Halkbank went from offering $100 million to paying $0 cannot be reconciled with its misconduct and the harm it has caused. The proposed agreement sends a dangerous message to long-time adversary Iran and its allies that they can violate U.S. law with impunity. It also sends a signal to mendacious international banks weighing the cost-benefit calculation attendant to conspiring with enemies of the United States and enabling U.S. terrorism-sanctions violations. Surely, that is not the government's intent.

D. Request for Relief

The Government has now filed an application for an order nolle prosequi to dismiss the charges. ECF No. 767 at ¶¶ 1, 9. Proceeding in this manner without affording our clients the rights guaranteed to them under the CVRA—including their right under § 3771(a)(9) to be informed of any deferred prosecution agreement and their right under § 3771(a)(5) to confer with the Government—cannot be squared with the statute. Halkbank's fraudulent and profitable schemes prevented our clients from collecting on their judgments and simultaneously allowed Iran to take advantage of the U.S. financial market. And yet the opportunity to hold Halkbank accountable for its actions appears to be rapidly fading away. While the Court need not evaluate the wisdom of the Government's charging decisions, the absence of notice and consultation with victims before reaching such a resolution underscores the importance of enforcing the procedural protections guaranteed by the CVRA. Accordingly, we respectfully request that this Court afford our clients—crime victims within the meaning of the CVRA—an opportunity to be heard before acting on the Government's application for an order nolle prosequi. As the statute makes clear, crime victims are entitled to confer with the Government and to be informed of any deferred prosecution agreement, and the Court must ensure that those rights are afforded. See 18 U.S.C. § 3771(a)(5), (a)(9), (b)(1). Our clients have not been afforded that opportunity despite having invoked their rights years ago. We further request that no order of dismissal be entered until our clients have had the opportunity to be heard and to confer with the Government as the CVRA requires.

Respectfully submitted,

Robert Weigel
